TRUSTBIX INC. ANNOUNCES COMMITMENT TO THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL FOUNDATION

Edmonton, Alberta, Canada

TrustBIX Inc. ("TrustBIX" or the "Company") (TSXV: TBIX) is pleased to announce its wholly owned subsidiary, Alberta Food Security Inc. ("AFS"), has committed to supporting the University Hospital Foundation ("The Foundation") through a formal cause marketing agreement and corporate membership to the Foundation's next generation philanthropy program, Igniters.

Through this initiative, AFS will donate $1,000 from the proceeds of every indoor farm grow module purchased by participating customers to support the Igniters program.

This commitment offers AFS indoor farming customers a unique opportunity to support both local food security and vital healthcare advancements. By purchasing an AFS grow module, these customers not only gain access to innovative indoor farming technology that can produce sustainable, locally grown produce, but also contribute to meaningful philanthropic efforts that advance healthcare solutions through the Foundation.

"The Igniters program is a powerful network of change-makers dedicated to advancing healthcare through innovation and philanthropy. Alberta Food Security Inc.'s commitment exemplifies how businesses can drive meaningful impact, aligning their values with transformative healthcare initiatives. We are grateful for their support and look forward to the positive outcomes this collaboration will create," said Sean Price, Chief Catalyst of Revenue Generation at the University Hospital Foundation.

"AFS deeply appreciates the vital role the University Hospital Foundation plays in our community. We see a clear alignment between our goals to grow fresh, healthy food and the Igniters program's role to enhance patient outcomes. Our commitment is a testament to our desire to make a lasting impact," said Joshua Lau, Vice President of AFS.

exchange for their two-year commitment of $5,000 per year, the Igniters gain access to behind-the-scenes experiences at the University of Alberta Hospital, pivotal networking among like-minded philanthropists, and the chance to participate in the annual voting experience, where members will hear pitches from health professionals around a specific theme and decide how to allocate their donations.
